"If he were here I am would share them with me and yet, I don't want any one to know I'm here. He can catch more." She salved her conscience with this thought, as she picked up one of the trout and bit into the julcy brown

Ten minutes later Mona Fairlee stole; willfully away from the scene. Heri appetite was appeased, but her conscience was upleasantly active.

What would the unknown fisherman say when he returned to his fire and discovered instead of five broiled trout, five little tails and a few hones?

Mona returned to the pier and watched for the appearance of some pleasure load. She did not know that

To be in fashion nowadays, one must dress a la grandmamma. Evening gowns are gracefully quaint. Short waists and full skirts, bands of velvet ribbon, bertha effects, guimps and tuckers are all in the fashion.

This gown is of taffeta with tiny rosebuds. A double frill of silk forms the little sleeve. A narrow frill of the silk is also used on the ruffled peplum and on the edge of the skirt.

"I have an idea," said Dick, slowly, "that Edith received your letter yes, into the face of the fisherman whose dinner she had eaten.

He was not an ill-looking young man. On the contrary, the gray cont covered broad shoulders above which rose a strong, brown throat and a head undeniably handsome. He was looking down at Myon's pale, frightened face with quizzleal, dark eyes.

"So it was you" he haughed softly. A wave of color flamed into Mona's cheeks. "I was hungry," she explained meekly. "If I had known, I would have starved first"

"But they were good—they must have been mighty good—they must have been mighty good—they smelled delicious" he said, regretfully.

"You should have watched them," returned Mona.

EUGEN YSAYE

The most notable authorities in the world have been unanimous in according to Ysaye a position in advance of all other musical artists of his day!

EUGEN YSAYE Greatest Violinist of all times!

Ysaye is indeed the recognized world's master of the violin. Though able to say the last word in the technique of his instrument it is not primarily as a technician that his greatness is evident. It is the Ysaye tone that has captured the world. The purity and absolute music of this tone has never been equalled. For instance, you may think you already know Brahms Hungarian Dance (No. 5); but hear it as Ysaye plays it-under the master's bow it fairly leaps with vivid vigor - there is an exultant abandon to the tremendous rhythm such as probably no other interpreter ever produced.

YSAYE makes records exclusively for the COLUMBIA

There are only two ways of hearing YSAYE-attend his performances on the stage if you can secure a seat-or hear him whenever and wherever you like and as often as you like on Columbia Records. These records, a dozen of them in this wonderful series, breathe the very spirit of his genius. All are priced at only $1.50-all are 12-inch single discs. PABLO CASALS, WORLD'S MASTER 'CELLIST, CAN NOW, BE HEARD IN EVERY HOME ON GRA-PHOPHONE RE-CORDS.

It was with an expression of sincerity and honesty that Fritz Kreisler voiced his admiration of Pablo Casals in a recent interview. "The greatest mar who draws a bow to-day" is what Fritz Kreisler is quoted as saying of the supreme artist of the 'cello. Pablo Casals is a Sanjard. He is each less Casals is a Spanlard. He is making a tour of America after an absence of eight years and has never falled to create a remarkable impression at his every performance. Casals is admitted the Ysaye of the 'cello.

It is said that Liszt developed the ut-most possibilities in pianoforte. It can truthfully be said that Sr. Casals has developed the utmost in the 'cello-His greatness lies not alone in his flaw-less technique. The secret, to a great extent is in his touch. There is a firm-ness and strength that produces a tone never before heard in 'cello work. never before heard in 'cello work.
